

CARING DADS TRAINING IN THE UK

November 2017 & February 2018

Caring Dads is an intervention programme aimed at improving the safety and well-being of children by working with fathers who have been violent and abusive in their families. It is ideally offered as part of a spectrum of programs, services and initiatives available to respond to perpetrators of varying forms and risk levels of family violence

Caring Dads seeks to reduce the impact of domestic abuse on children by working with fathers to address their violent behaviour. It focuses on men's role as fathers and aims to motivate them to change their behaviour and reduce the risk of them further harming their children.

Positively evaluated in the UK and internationally, for fathers completing the programme, the evidence includes that:

- Fathers and partners reported fewer incidents of domestic abuse;
- Risks to children reduced because fathers generally found being a parent less stressful and interacted better with their children;
- Qualitative information provided evidence of how the programme can bring about positive improvements in the fathers' behaviour. For example, some children talked about seeing their father more often and feeling happier and more comfortable around him;
- Sustained improvements in the fathers' behaviour helped to increase feelings of safety and wellbeing within their families (NSPCC, March 2016).
